

Here at Sykes-Pickavant, it affects us all when one of our colleagues is living with cancer.

So this year we are delighted to be supporting our chosen cancer charity – Macmillan Cancer Support, who in turn will provide support and inspiration to our colleague and their family during this time of need.

Paul Archer, Managing Director comments: “We chose to partner with Macmillan, as it’s a charity that provides invaluable services and support to those living with cancer. We hope that employees, friends, customers and family will all get involved and join in to make a difference to people living with cancer”

SYKES-PICKAVANT RECENT FUNDRAISING FOR MACMILLAN CANCER ‘TEES OFF’ TO A GREAT START

As part of our fundraising for Macmillan Cancer, Darren Barker – Purchasing Officer at Sykes-Pickavant and three of his golfer friends took part in the ‘72 holes of Golf in just one day Challenge’ on Friday 24th June.

The team of 4 who are all members of the The Chase Golf Club in Penkridge, Staffordshire, tee’d off at 5.00am to tackle the first of four rounds of the course. Faced with rain showers, an impromptu thunderstorm (!) as well as glorious sunshine, the fantastic four finally completed the challenge, with the support of their loved ones at 8.30pm covering approximately 22 miles.

Darren commented: “So far, as a company we have raised over £2000 as part of our fundraising for Macmillan Cancer and having spoken to some of the guys at the golf club, I thought what better way to have some fun competing against each other, whilst at the same time raising money for such a worthwhile charity.”

Collectively, the team have raised over £1200 for Macmillan Cancer Support – so a big well done to all of the team and a huge thanks to The Chase Golf Club for kindly supporting the event.

All donations will be added to our fundraising page – read more here:
